BROOKVILLE MEN TO CONFER HERE

Merchants From Franklin County Seat Will Meet With Rushville Residents Monday Night.

WILL TALK I. & C. EXTENSION

Persons Interested in Welfare of the City Are Urged to Come Out and Greet Visitors.

WHO REALIZE WORTH OF LINE

President Henry Drives to Andersonville Today to Select Route to be Surveyed.

With the sighing of the spring zephyrs naturally are associated thoughts of traction line extension which has been considered at all angles for some time; and now there is some foundation for such thoughts since active work in preparation for the surveying of the proposed route from this city to Cincinnati was started this morning.

In addition it is announced that residents of Brookville and Rushville will redouble their efforts to cause the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company to extend its lines from this city to Cincinnati. A company of at least fifteen or twenty merchants and manufacturers of Brookville will be here Monday night to meet with the people of Rushville who are interested and would like to see the route extended from this city.

The first preparation for making the survey of the route from this city was made today when President Charles L. Henry of the I. & C. and three surveyors left here this morning and drove to Andersonville. The purpose of the trip was to select the route which will be surveyed by the corps of engineers who will follow soon. Mr. Henry picks the route all of the way. Today he chose the way as far as Andersonville, and before the surveyors reach that city in making the survey, he will have proceeded about the distance covered today farther, in preparation for the surveyors. The engineers will begin the active survey in a week or ten days.

A number of Brookville men have sent word here that they would like to meet the interested people of Rushville here Monday night and formulate plans to get the I. & C. extension from this city. The merchants and property owners of Brookville apparently realize the worth of the extension to their city and are out to get it. All they ask is the co-operation of Rushville people.

They will be here Monday night, headed by M. C. Hubbard, president of a Brookville bank, and Mr. Bryant president of the Brookville paper mill, to meet the citizens of Rushville. They are very anxious that a representative body of men of Rushville be in attendance so that they get at the sentiment in regard to the extension and formulate plans for an active campaign.

It is the intent to strike the most telling blows in the campaign for the extension right now because this is the last survey which will be made, and as soon as it is completed, the route will most likely be selected by the president and directors of the I. & C. The matter of obtaining a right of way is the most important thing, and that part of the work will soon be undertaken. This, it is pointed out, is where some of the most effective work can be done by the business men and interested persons in the cities through which the line will

Defeated Ed Pitman by Margin of Three Points.

Earl Moore defeated Ed Pitman in the pool tournament last night by a score of 100 to 97. The game was one of the best of the tournament and was very close throughout. Only a small margin separated the contestants all during the game and towards the last Pitman drew up within striking distance, but could not win out. Both men made runs of ten. The next game will be played Monday night.

DEATH COMES TO WELL KNOWN MAN

Alfred B. Flinn, 69 Years Old, Expires After Long Illness With Paralysis.

FUNERAL MONDAY AFTERNOON

Alfred B. Flinn, 69 years old, a well known retired merchant of this city, died this morning at six o'clock at his home, corner of Second and Perkins streets. Mr. Flinn suffered a stroke of paralysis several months ago and had since been in a serious condition. His death was expected although it came as a surprise to all who knew him.

Mr. Flinn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Flinn and was born in this city October 17, 1842. With the exception of a few years residence in Cincinnati and Wichita, Kas., he had lived here all his life. On September 25, 1897 Mr. Flinn opened a grocery in this city which he conducted until March, 1910. Since then he had not been actively engaged in business. Mr. Flinn is survived by a widow.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late residence, conducted by the Rev. C. M. Yoem. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery. Friends may view the remains Sunday afternoon and Monday morning.

SUITS SET TODAY WERE NOT TRIED

Two Cases Against William Downard, One is Dismissed, and Other is Continued.

JIMMIE JUDD UP IN COURT

Two cases were set for trial in circuit court today and neither was tried. The suit on account, demanded $300, filed by Elizabeth Gallimore against William Downard was continued until next term of court. The claim for $625 asked by Allen Shaw from William Downard, administrator of the estate of Mary A. Downard, deceased, was dismissed when the plaintiff defaulted. The court went to Shelbyville at noon.

Little Jimmie Judd, son of Amos Judd, was in juvenile court this morning. It is said it was found he was not properly cared for by his parents. He will probably be sent to the Spiceland home.

The will of the late Mrs. Rachel Cherry has been admitted to probate in the Rush circuit court. Alonzo Newhouse is named as executor.

Dust collected from numerous vacuum cleaners has proved to be a valuable fertilizer, and its sale has become a regular business in Paris.

MAY RETURN TO NATIVE HEATH

Carl Morris Writes Friends he May Locate in Indianapolis After a Trip Abroad.

TO STUDY IN PARIS NEXT YEAR

New York Baritone Achieves New Triumphs in Philadelphia and Other Eastern Cities.

Carl Morris, the New York baritone, who was born and reared in Noble township, and who has a host of friends all over Rush county, may return to Indiana, his native health, after he has achieved more triumphs in the East and has studied in Europe under some of the best voice culturists in the world.

Mr. Morris has indicated in letters to friends here that he may return to Indianapolis to reside after first studying in Europe. Carl had planned to study in Paris this year but has written here that he will postpone his trip abroad until next year. At that time he plans to study under De Reszke in Paris. After that he may locate in Indianapolis permanently. Mr. Morris writes that he can't forget his "first love," Indiana.

Carl Morris has been winning wonderful triumphs and laurels for himself in New York in the last few months. He writes that he had a successful appearance in Carnegie Hall, New York City, recently with the People's Symphony Orchestra, one of the best in the eastern metropolis. He also sang to great advantage in New York a few days ago with the Kneisel string quartet, the finest of its kind in existence.

He is advertised to give a recital in Baltimore at one of the largest music halls in the city next week. The following week he will appear in a recital in Scranton, Pa.

Mr. Morris writes that he sang in Russell H. Cromwell's church, the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia, last Monday night with the Criterion quartet, of which he is a member. Mr. Morris recalls that Russell Cromwell once lectured in Rushville on "Acres of Diamonds" and will probably be remembered by many here.

The Baptist Temple is a wonderful church. It seats four thousand people and the organ which is installed there cost $25,000. An audience of thirty-five hundred people heard the rendition of "The Storm" by the Criterion quartet.

The concert was on the night of Lincoln's birthday. All of the Grand Army Posts of Philadelphia were present in uniforms as "The Storm" is a great patriotic production. Mr. Morris sings first bass with the quartet.

Mr. Morris has evinced a great interest in Jesse Pugh, another local man who promises to make good in the musical world. He is now engaged with the Jesse Pugh Company on the Lyceum stage. Mr. Pugh expects to be in New York during the month of May for some special work. Mr. Morris may assist Jesse Pugh in making a career in his chosen work by giving his lessons and assisting him over the rough places which he (Carl Morris) has already experienced.

GETS DECISION ON SMALL ERROR

Orange Township Advisory Board And Trustee Wins Important Case From Trust Company.

COSTS AGAINST THE PLAINTIFF

In Proposal For Fund Deposit Farmers Banking Co. Appears Instead of Farmers Trust Co.

Judge Blair handed down a decision today in the case of the State of Indiana in relation to the Farmers Trust Company of this city against the board of finance and the trustee of Orange township, filed for the purpose of gaining special findings of facts and conclusions of law in regard to the statute in question, which is said to be a very important one.

The court found for the defendant and adjudged all of the costs of the action against the complaining institution. A. B. Irvin, president of the Farmers Trust Company, said this afternoon that he did not know whether or not he would take an appeal from the decision of Judge Blair.

The trust company president says that the court found for the defendant solely on account of a technical error. The company filed suit to compel the board of finance and trustee to deposit some of the township public funds with that company, the company having prescribed with the law in making a proposal and offer to take the funds at a rate of interest provided by the law.

In his special finding at the conclusion of the long decision the court says: "The law is with the defendants and the plaintiff has failed to prove all the material obligations on the complaint. Secondly, the plaintiff did not comply with the statute in filing his proposal. Third, the plaintiff should take nothing by this action and that defendant and each of them recover of and from the plaintiff their costs herein laid out and expended."

President Irvin points out that it is the second conclusion of the law that caused the finding for the defendants. In making the proposal for the deposit of public funds Farmers Banking Company was written once and the Farmers Trust Company nineteen other times. Prior to the time of the filing of the proposal the Farmers Banking Company had been reorganized and changed to the Farmers Trust Company. Mr. Irvin holds that this mere technical error is the cause for the decision as it is. He declares that the court held with the trust company all through the long decision.

The decision covers several typewritten pages and is composed of twelve paragraphs. In the first paragraph the court states defendants named were members of the board of finance and trustee of Orange township for two years preceding. In the second paragraph the court says he finds that on December 19, 1910, the relator—meaning the trust company—filed with the board of finance its written proposal to receive on deposit public funds of the township. The written proposal of the plaintiff is included in the decision.

In the third paragraph the court finds that at the time of the filing the proposal the trust company had arranged for bond with the Federal Union Surety Company, as surety thereon, and Farmers Trust Company as principal, in amount required by law in proportion to the amount of award of such funds as might be made. The court finds the trust company was and now is ready to file bond in five days after notice.

In the fourth paragraph Judge

Blair finds the Farmers Trust Company organized and incorporated on September 26, 1910, and that its capital stock from September 19, 1910, was $50,000 and that its surplus was and now is $2,500. He finds the company prospers, is financially sound, its capital stock is unimpaired and that it is subject to examination by the auditor of State and bank examiners.

In paragraph five the court finds the proposal was on file at the meeting of the board December 26, 1910; that it is still there and that the board and trustee met on that date to receive bids for deposit of public funds. Further that there was not then and is not now a qualified bank or trust company in Orange township and that the other bidders were the Peoples Loan & Trust Company, the Peoples National bank, and the Milroy bank.

The sixth paragraph shows the court found the Peoples National bank was organized and incorporated August 26, 1904, with capital paid-up stock of $50,000 and a surplus of $60,000, which conditions still hold; that the Peoples Loan & Trust Company was organized and incorporated June 18, 1909, with capital paid-up stock of $50,000 and surplus of $1,500, which is still the same, and that the Milroy bank was organized and incorporated June 25, 1904, with capital paid-up stock of $10,000 and surplus $5,000, which are still the same.

The seventh paragraph shows the court found all three above-named institutions ready to file good and sufficient bonds, but that the board of finance decided no public funds should be deposited with the Farmers Trust Company, but with the Peoples and Milroy banks.

In paragraph eight it is set forth the court found the trustee delivered for deposit all public funds of the township to the Peoples and Milroy banks and refuses and still refuses to deposit any with the Farmers Trust Company. The decision sets forth the records of the meetings of the board December 9, 1909, and January 2, 1910. In paragraph nine the court finds the Peoples and Milroy banks have funds of township amounting to $3,500.

In paragraph ten the court sets forth the finding that the Farmers Trust Company, before filing this last action demanded removal of $1,500, or so much funds belonging to the township as the trust company would be entitled to under the law, and that the board refused. In paragraph eleven the court says he found the trust company requested the board to transfer funds when removed, to the trust company, and in the last paragraph it is found that the board still refused.

President Irvin points out that it is the second conclusion of the law that caused the finding for the defendants. In making the proposal for the deposit of public funds Farmers Banking Company was written once and the Farmers Trust Company had been reorganized and changed to the Farmers Trust Company. Mr. Irvin holds that this mere technical error is the cause for the decision as it is. He declares that the court held with the trust company all through the long decision.

"The story sent out from Ft. Wayne to the effect that fifty of the Allen county delegates are for Ralston is wholly without foundation either in fact or in delegates," he said. "The fact is that there are probably four or five men in the delegation that will vote for Ralston and three for Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall. All the rest are for Boehne."

Edward G. Hoffman of Ft. Wayne, Democratic district chairman of the Twelfth district, was in the city Friday, and he said that at the Democratic primaries in Allen county, held Thursday, all except about seven or eight of the sixty-five delegates elected to the State convention will vote for the nomination of John W. Boehne for governor, says the Indianapolis News.

LOCALS HANDED SIXTH DEFEAT

New Castle Wins Uninteresting Game of Basket Ball by Score of 19 to 12.

RUSHVILLE IN POOR FORM

Failed to Make Single Field Goal in First Half—Connersville Here Next Friday.

In an uninteresting game of basketball the Rushville high school team met defeat at the hands of the Newcastle high school, nineteen-to twelve. In the first five minutes of play neither team scored and then a foul was called on Newcastle, Kirkpatrick, captain of the locals, tossing a goal. Newcastle succeeded in gaining the lead, and by their fast team work, had the local quintet dazed and lost. The score at the end of the first half stood nine to two, in favor of the visitors. Rushville failed to throw a field goal, making their two points by foul throws.

Some changes in the line up of the local team in the first half might have caused their defeat. Capt. Kirkpatrick played guard and Cameron played forward. The second half started off with a rush and Rushville entered with a determination to win. For a while it looked as though they could overcome the score of their opponents.

Kirkpatrick played in his regular place the second half and succeeded in throwing a field goal soon after its opening. Stewart followed with another, and assisted by the number of fouls made by the Newcastle team the locals ran their score up to twelve.

Crandall and Thompson of Newcastle were the individual stars but the whole team was fast and had excellent team work. When the final whistle blew the visitors were seven points in the lead. Rushville "rooters" were confident of victory and, therefore, were sadly disappointed. The local team was defeated by only four points at Newcastle a few weeks ago. The Connersville high school comes here next Friday night. Richmond plays at New Castle tonight.

The curtain raiser was the better game of the two. The "All Stars" were defeated by the "Runts," nine to seven. The teams were composed of the players of the different class teams.

The line up of Rushville and Newcastle is as follows: Newcastle, Scott and Crandall, forwards; Peckenaugh, center; Mendenhall and Thompson, guards; Rushville: Cameron and Stewart, forwards; Webb, center; Kirkpatrick and Scholl, guards; Referee, M. S. Hallman of Connersville.

Charles Klein's absorbing drama of tremendous heart interest, "The Gamblers" will be the attraction at the Shubert Murat, Indianapolis, for three nights and two matinees, commencing with a holiday matinee Thursday, February 22, being presented by the Author's Producing Company of which John Cort is president. This play was conceded the most successful of all the dramatic offerings produced in New York City last season, attracting capacity audiences at Maxine Elliott's Theatre for over 200 consecutive performances.

Wall Street and Fifth Avenue form the locale of Mr. Klein's story and the instinct for gambling is his theme. John Emerson, a financier of the old school, is content to count his profits by the thousands. He has a son who has the "greed spirit" in a highly developed state. The ambition-crazed son eventually involves his father and partners with the highest powers in Washington. Having determined to put a stop to questionable banking practices, the authorities take charge of the Emerson and plan to make an example of the young Napoleon of finance who has overreached himself. The son has recovered the documents that are an evidence of violation of the laws, and all but one of the bank officials are assured of immunity from prosecution and possible imprisonment. By a deal of the cards it is determined who shall be the scapegoat. The elder Emerson draws the fatal card and the son declares it a misdeal and takes the father's place.

Then looms up the unfortunate young man's bitterest enemy in the person of the prosecutor for the federal government. The wife of the lawyer here enters the story, bearing a written confession from one of Emerson's associates who has left the tell-tale notes at the prosecutor's home, hoping to save himself from disgrace and ignominy by betraying his partners. She is put through a merciless cross-examination by her lawyer husband, who unjustly accuses her of indiscretion. This dramatic conflict settles the unhappy wife's determination to save the compromised bank manipulator and reconstruct her own matrimonial edifice.

The advance sale of seats will open Monday, February 19. Mail orders will be taken care of in the order of their receipts.

Charles B. Lewis Celebrates
Seventieth Birthday.

THE GANG WAS ALL THERE

If Not in Actual Presence, at Least in Spirit, For the Whole Bunch of American Humorists Took Pleasure in Paying Their Literary Compliments to the Man Whom They Cheerfully Acknowledge as Dean.

New York, Feb. 17.—Charles B. Lewis, otherwise known as "M. Quad," sponsor of Mr. and Mrs. Bowser, Brother Gardner of the Lime Kiln Club, the Arizona Kicker, Old Pap Hinkham of Jericho Postoffice, and the German cobbler, has just celebrated his 70th birthday and was the bashful victim of a birthday party in the McClure newspaper syndicate offices. Through this syndicate he has distributed in the last twenty years an average of 10,000 words a week about the doings of his folks.

Then looms up the unfortunate young man's bitterest enemy in the person of the prosecutor for the federal government. The wife of the lawyer here enters the story, bearing a written confession from one of Emerson's associates who has left the tell-tale notes at the prosecutor's home, hoping to save himself from disgrace and ignominy by betraying his partners. WILL DISCUSS EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Miss Harriet Grimm Will Address
Student Government League at Western College.

LOCAL GIRLS ATTEND THERE

Miss Harriet Grimm, formerly a speaker for the Illinois Equal Suffrage League, and now engaged by the National Equal Suffrage League for its Wisconsin campaign, will make a flying trip to Southern Ohio next week. Miss Grimm will lecture on "Equal Suffrage" before the Student Government League of the Western College at Oxford, Ohio. A number of local girls are in school there.

Student-government has been organized and carried on at the institution with interesting success. It has developed a self-reliant type of college woman who, it is said, has already proved herself capable of removing the beam from her own eye and now stands ready to aid effectively in removing the mote from the eye of her brother.

Then M. Quad tucked the red book under his arm and started for home.

CAUSED SENSATION

Insurance Trust Accused of Attempted

Bribery by Kentucky Solon.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 17.—Making the charge that the so-called insurance trust of America, through its representatives, had attempted to bribe him to prevent the house from passing his measure providing for the regulation by a commission of life insurance companies operating in Kentucky, Representative Harry J. Meyers of Covington caused a sensation in the legislature. He made the charge after numerous efforts had been made to block a vote on the bill having it re-committed. He mentioned a Kentucky company as having been most persistent in maintaining a lobby to defeat the proposed legislation.

Then M. Quad made a husky speech:

"My friends, I'm glad if I have done anything in my long life to make anybody happier, as you say. I never got rich for the reason that I was not smart enough to steal more than $5 at a time. But I have always considered myself blessed because I was fortunate to get a few good friends and keep them. That is about the best thing in life—to have a few good friends and keep them."

Then M. Quad tucked the red book under his arm and started for home.

A PAN-SLAVONIC POLITICAL MOVE

Foreign Voters Seek Control of Lake County

AN INDEPENDENT ASSOCIATION

With an Estimated Voting Strength of Not Less Than Ten Thousand, the So-Called "Hunky" Vote of Lake County Is to Be Directed Toward the Election of Foreign-Born Officeholders in That Corner of the State.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 17.—The thousands of foreign voters in Lake county are planning to combine themselves into a formidable independent voting machine. It is intended that from now on the "hunky" voters shall have more to say in the selection of candidates, and that there shall be more foreign-born officeholders. There is even talk of capturing the Gary mayoralty at the next city election, and such a thing is not impossible, as the foreign vote is in the majority.

For more than a year some of the foreign leaders have been quietly at work, and they have carried out their campaign on a systematic basis. Every one of the estimated ten thousand foreign voters in Lake county carried a musket in the arms of Europe before they came to America. They have military discipline, and the matter of organization would be one of the least problems confronting the leaders.

It is also planned to establish a foreign newspaper in Lake county, which shall be independent, and which shall attack vice and graft. An All-Slavonian Political and Literary association is to be organized and a charter will be asked for in a few days from the secretary of state. Frank Zawadski, one of the directors in the National Polish Alliance, and formerly Chicago police lieutenant; Louis Gerkovich, president general of the National Servian Alliance; Dr. John Pavlich, a Gary attorney, and formerly a member of the Austrian parliament and privy council to the emperor; John Kesić, and others, are leading the all-Slavonian movement.

HELD UP TRAIN

Liggett, Near the Illinois State Line, the Scene of Bandit's Fiasco.

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 17.—The Vandalia fast mail, westbound, was held up at Liggett, near the Illinois state line, late last night. No passengers are carried on this train. A few shots were fired to terrify the occupants.

The ashes of a cigar which Engineer William Davis was smoking at the time of the holdup were shot away, but four holes in the top of the cab are the only results of the robber's murderous assault. Conductor Edward Payne said that he saw another robber running north from the train shortly after the assailant of the men in the cab fled toward the south, evidently having been frightened at a show of resistance.

Victim of Mysterious Attack.

Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 17.—The police are still searching for the man who shot John Dova, Roumanian. The fellow stole into Dova's room and fired three shots into his body as he lay sleeping. All three balls were recovered by physicians, and it was thought at first Dova had not been dangerously hurt, but it is feared now he will die. No motive for the deed is known.

Steal by the Wagon Load.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Feb. 15—Thieves with a two-horse wagon stole 1,500 pounds of tobacco from the warehouse of John W. Lehmann, a grower, living on Jimison creek. A number of other tobacco raisers also report the theft of smaller quantities of the weed.

Leaking Mains Cause Death.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 17.—Gas leaking from artificial mains into long abandoned natural gas mains asphyxiated Mrs. Frank Vance and rendered unconscious a dozen persons in the neighborhood of Seventeenth and Tole do streets.

Woman Choked by Burglar.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Cornelie Gwyn was assaulted by a burglar in her home and left unconscious from being choked and beaten. Mrs. Gwyn was found in an unconscious condition by her son, who arrived home some time later.

Cut Throat With Razor.

Jasper, Ind., Feb. 17.—Christian H. Rudolph, a wealthy farmer of Portersville, and former treasurer of Dubois county, attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. Poor health is the supposed case. He may recover.

William Howard Taft, Progressive

While the "progressives," who clung tenaciously to the LaFollette presidential boom until it blew up like a soap bubble, have striven to tell the people what President Taft hasn't done, and while the promoters of the Roosevelt boom, which is fighting so hard to live despite Mr. Roosevelt's own sphinx-like refusal to see it, are pointing out what Mr. Taft's predecessor "did do," it might be well to take a quick glance at what President Taft and his administration "have done."

There is a great deal said about "standpatters" and "progressivism," and much stress is laid upon both. Fact is, so much is made of these two words that they have come to be, like many others in and out of the natural scope of the English language, very sadly abused. Everybody who is "against the administration" is a "progressive," and everybody who stands by the administration and believes in it is a "standpatter." However, a little look at the things that have been accomplished during three years of President Taft would seem to indicate that Mr. Taft hasn't "stood pat still," but on the contrary has been sufficiently progressive to do a great many things without jumping over the traces of judgment and discretion.

Let us take a look at this index of the three years of President Taft's administration.

Arbitration Treaties with Great Britain aimed at war have been negotiated and are now before the Senate. Similar negotiations with other Powers are pending.

Great trusts have been made to feel that the statutes carry penalties for them as well as for the small trusts, and for the individual violator of the law. An era of calm enforcement of existing law has been inaugurated. The Sugar corporation was convicted, proceedings brought against the Steel corporation, and the Coal, Whiskey, Lumber and Beef corporations brought to court. More than two score prosecutions are pending. The Standard Oil and Tobacco cases have been completed and an interpretation of the Sherman law, many years in doubt, obtained.

When a Democratic House threatened to involve the United States with Russia in a too hasty annulment of the passport treaty, President Taft assumed the weight of responsibility, and declared, in diplomatic form, that the treaty would be abrogated upon the notice of one year, which it required.

Scientific tariff revision has been put in place of political giving and taking in such legislation. A Tariff Board has been created and its investigations have brought a recommendation from the President for a revision and reduction of the woolen schedule. Other schedules are under scrutiny preparatory to further recommendations, if they be found to conflict with Republican platform principle, and his policy looking to future revision on a scientific schedule by schedule revision, has become effective.

The tariff bill, regarded by President Taft as a step in the right direction, even though not a perfect measure, has turned a $58,000,000 deficit into a $30,000,000 surplus. Wool, cotton and so-called farmer's free list bills, originating in a Democratic House, have been vetoed because they violated the principle of the Republican platform, that revision of the tariff should be based upon the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad—a difference upon which information at that time was lacking.

The Panama Canal has been brought to a stage approaching completion, and the date of opening advanced by several months through systematic work.

The Arizona statehood bill was vetoed because it provided for the recall of judges. New Mexico has now been admitted as a State and Arizona will soon follow.

The Post Office Department has been placed upon a self-sustaining basis.

A difficult situation resulting from the revolution in Mexico, arousing deep feeling in the southern portions of the United States, was handled with diplomacy and tact, and the United States aided in the establishment of law and order in the neighboring republic through preserving it in our own.

The Treasury agents and Customs employees have been reorganized, fraud has been weeded out of the custom service, and many thousands of dollars lost under fraudulent importations have been recovered.

A Bureau of Mines has been created. Steps have been taken toward a new employers' liability and workers' compensation act and the adoption of additional safety appliances on railroads.

A new policy as to River and Harbor Appropriations has been begun, the old "pork barrel" appropriation system abandoned, and the business of containing contracts adopted.

Reciprocity with Canada was offered, brought to a successful conclusion in the United States, and failed because Canada evidently thought the agreement gave us the advantage.

A treaty with Japan has been negotiated bringing about genuine friendship between her and the United States.

New treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua, that will make for permanent peace in those countries, have been negotiated and await action by the Senate.

Postal banks have been established. Rigid economy has been instituted in the government departments. A Court of Customs Appeals has been created.

A Stock and Bond Commission has been appointed and has made a valuable and exhaustive report.

Parcel post has been recommended.

Judicial appointments have been taken out of politics.

The 13th census was made non-political. President Taft has declared for the extension of the civil service, accomplishing much in this direction by executive order.

The passage of a corporation tax law, yielding thirty millions annually, has been obtained with the resultant surveillance of corporate activities.

The question of an income tax amendment of the Constitution has been submitted to the States.

The President has provided for the accomplishment of conservation policies, and obtained a bond issue for irrigation projects; obtained legislation further extending the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and creating a Court of Commerce to review the Commission's findings; recommended a Federal incorporation act; and induced China to open to American finance on equal terms with the rest of the world.

Peace in Cuba has been maintained by a word of friendly warning.

The railroads of the country were prevented, by an appeal to the writ of injunction, from putting rate increases into effect.

UPHOLDS PRESS IN COURT DECISION

Henry County Judge Decides Newspaper Has Right to Fight Public Evil.

WAR ON THE PUBLIC DANCE

A newspaper may not be prevented from attacking evil when it threatens the public welfare, according to a judgment rendered in the Henry county circuit court.

The Newcastle Courier made an attack upon a public five-cent dance hall in that city, characterizing it as an evil. The proprietor of the place brought suit against the newspaper for $5,000 damages, alleging that he had been libeled. The newspaper demurred to the complaint setting up that the paper was right in its charges against the dance hall and that the proprietor had no ground for bringing the suit.

The court sustained the demurral and the case came to a sudden end. The court ruled that the newspaper was within its rights when it attacked an evil of the kind named.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Aliments.

I am a woman.
I will have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's aliments. I want to tell all women about this—yes—my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or Whist discharge, Ulceration, Diaphoresis, Falling of the womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Fallopian Tumors, Growths; also pains in head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire for sex, hot flashes, weariness, kidney, and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember that, it will cost you nothing to give me your name and address, and I will give you a free copy of my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. You should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says, "You must have an operation" you can decide for yourself if you want to have it. I will explain to themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old ones. To Mother of Strength, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Sickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young Ladies, Plumpness and health always results from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Use it and see for yourself how quickly dandruff goes and gray hairs vanish.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin,

AMUSEMENTS

"The Poison Cup," the first picture at the Palace tonight is a sensational drama by the Reliance all-star stock company. It is said to be a thrilling picture, telling a story of great interest. The other is a Bison western drama entitled "The Cattleman's War."

The Princess offers for the Saturday night program two good pictures, a comedy and a drama. "The Long Arm of the Law" is a thrilling western drama. It is a Kalem film. "Love's Labor Lost" is a Lubin comedy. On Tuesday night the attraction will be "Molly Pitcher," a picture based on a famous war story and character.

The Portola will show again tonight the three reel Selig production of "Cinderella." This well known story is told in detail by the pictures, which are among the best ever seen here. The part of "Cinderella" is played by Mabel Taliaferro, one of the best known actresses on the American stage and the other parts are well taken care of.

FROM EATING CANNED CORN

Mrs. Horace Lewis Suffered Attack of Ptomaine Poisoning.

Mrs. Horace Lewis, who conducts a boarding house at 225 West Third street, suffered a sudden and severe attack of ptomaine poisoning last evening and for a time it was feared that she would not recover. A physician was called and arrived barely in time to save her life. The poisoning was caused by eating a quantity of canned corn for supper.

OUT FOR COMMISSIONER

John E. Harrison Seeks Nomination in Southern District.

John E. Harrison of Anderson township, county commissioner from the southern district, announced today that he would be a candidate for re-nomination for commissioner at the county convention March 30. Mr. Harrison took office the first of this year and will not retire until January 1, 1915, at which time he will begin his second term if elected. Mr. Harrison will not have any opponents in the race, it appears. Mr. Harrison is a much liked man.

IS LARGEST TILE DRAIN IN COUNTRY

One Established by Local Court Only

One to Have Been Traversed

Two Miles by a Dog.

WAS STARTED IN YEARS AGO

The largest tile drain in the county is the Catherine Beach drain, which traverses parts of both Henry and Rush counties. The agitation for the drain was begun about eight years ago by I. M. Fletcher, and it was completed about the end of 1910. The drain runs from a point on Simeon Pickering's farm, near Lewisville, to a point 50 feet north of George Poppo's east line, a distance of 21,850 feet, which together with its 4,209 feet of tributaries, make a total of 25,850 feet. From this point to Flatrock the drain is known as Greenwood creek, having been established by the Rush circuit court.

The drain is the only closed drain that has been traversed two miles by a dog. It is also the only drain of length, which does not vary 1-100 part of one foot from the original survey. The drain is laid throughout its entire length with steam-cured tile, which made it possible to walk a 1,600 pound horse on the naked tile without a break.

"Well, the chandelier . . . the chandelier, Erik?"
"What about the chandelier?"
"You know what I mean."
"Oh," he sniggered, "I don't mind telling you about the chandelier!"
"It wasn't I! . . . The chandelier was very old and worn."
When Erik laughed, he was more terrible than ever. He jumped into the boat, chuckling so horribly that I could not help trembling.

"Very old and worn, my dear daroga! Very old and worn, the chandelier! . . . It fell of itself! . . . It came down with a smash! . . . And now, daroga, take my advice and go and dry yourself, or you'll catch a cold in the head! . . . And never get into my boat again! . . . And, whatever you do, don't try to enter my house; I'm not always there! . . . daroga! And I should be sorry to have to dedicate my Requiem Mass to you!"

So saying, swinging to and fro, like a monkey, and still chuckling, he pushed off and soon disappeared into the darkness of the lake.

From that day, I gave up all thought of penetrating into his house by the lake. That entrance was obviously too well guarded, especially since he had learned that I knew about it. But I felt that there must be another entrance, for I had often seen Erik disappear in the third cellar, when I was watching him, though I could not imagine how.

Ever since I had discovered Erik installed in the opera, I lived in a perpetual terror of his horrible fancies, not in so far as I was concerned, but I dreaded everything for others. And whenever some accident, some fatal event happened, I always thought to myself, "I should not be surprised if that were Erik," even as others used to say, "It's the ghost!" How often have I not heard people utter that phrase with a smile! Poor devils! If they had known that the ghost existed in the flesh, I swear they would not have laughed!

Although Erik announced to me very solemnly that he had changed and that he had become the most virtuous of men since he was loved for himself—a sentence that, at first, perplexed me most terribly—could not help shuddering when I thought of the monster. His horrible, unparalleled and repulsive ugliness put him without the pale of humanity; and it often seemed to me that, for this reason, he no longer believed that he had any duty toward the human race. The way in which he spoke of his love-affairs only increased my alarm, for I foresaw the cause of fresh and more hideous tragedies in this event to which he alluded so boastfully.

On the other hand, I soon discovered the curious moral traffic established between the monster and Christine Daae. Hiding in the lumber-room next to the young prima donna's dressing-room, I listened to wonderful musical displays that evidently flung Christine into marvelous ecstasy, but, all the same, I would never have thought that Erik's voice—which was loud as thunder or soft as angels' voices, at will—could have made her forget his ugliness. I understood all when I learned that Christine had not yet seen him! I had occasion to go to the dressing-room and, remembering the lessons he had once given me, I had no difficulty in discovering the trick that made the wall with the mirror swing round and I ascertained the means—of hollow bricks and so on—by which he made his voice carry to Christine as though she heard it close beside her. In this way also I discovered the road that led to the well and the dungeon—the Communists' dungeon—and also the trap-door that enabled Erik to go straight to the cellars below the stage.

A few days later, what was not my amazement to learn by my own eyes and ears that Erik and Christine Daae saw each other and to catch the monster stooping over the little well, in the Communists' road and sprinkling the forehead of Christine Daae, who had fainted. A white horse, the horse out of the Profeta, which had disappeared from the stables under the opera, was standing quietly beside them. I showed myself. It was terrible. I saw sparks fly from those yellow eyes and, before I had time to say a word, I received a blow on the head that stunned me.

When I came to myself, Erik, Christine and the white horse had disappeared. I felt sure that the poor girl was a prisoner in the house on the lake. Without hesitation, I resolved to return to the bank, notwithstanding the attendant danger. For twenty-four hours, I lay in wait for the monster to appear; for I felt that he must go out, driven by the need of obtaining provisions. And, in this connection, I may say, that, when he went out in the streets or ventured to show himself in public, he wore a pasteboard nose, with a mustache attached to it, instead of his own horrible hole of a nose. This did not quite take away his corpse-like air, but it made him almost, I say almost, endurable to look at.

I therefore watched on the bank of the lake and, weary of long waiting, was beginning to think that he had gone through the other door, the door in the third cellar, when I heard a slight splashing in the dark, I saw the two yellow eyes shining like candles and soon the boat touched shore. Erik jumped out and walked up to me:

"You've been here for twenty-four hours," he said, "and you're annoying me. I tell you, all this will end very badly. And you will have brought it upon yourself; for I have been extraordinarily patient with you. You think you are following me, you great booby, whereas it's I who am following you; and I know all that you know about me, here. I spared you yesterday, in my Communists' road; but I warn you, seriously, don't let me catch you there again! Upon my word, you don't seem able to take a hint!"

He was so furious that I did not think, for the moment, of interrupting him. After puffing and blowing like a wairius, he put his horrible thought into words:

"Yes, you must learn, once and for all—once and for all, I say—to take a hint! I tell you that, with your recklessness—for you have already been twice arrested by the shade in the felt hat, who did not know what you were doing in the cellars, and took you to the managers, who looked upon you as an eccentric Persian interested in stage mechanism and life behind the scenes; I know all about it, I was there, in the office; you know I am everywhere—well, I tell you that, with your recklessness, they will end by wondering what you are after here . . . and they will end by knowing that you are after Erik . . . and then they will be after Erik themselves and they will discover the house on the lake. . . . If they do, it will be a bad lookout for you, old chap, a bad lookout! . . . I won't answer for anything."

Again he puffed and blew like a wairius.

"I won't answer for anything! . . . If Erik's secrets cease to be Erik's secrets, it will be a bad lookout for a goodly number of the human race! That's all I have to tell you, and unless you are a great booby, it ought to be enough for you . . . except that you don't know how to take a hint."

He had sat down on the stern of his boat and was kicking his heels against the planks, waiting to hear what I had to answer. I simply said: "It's not Erik that I'm after here!" "Who then?"

"You know as well as I do: it's Christine Daae," I answered.

He retorted: "I have every right to see her in my own house. I am loved for my own sake."

"That's not true," I said. "You have carried her off and are keeping her locked up."

"Listen," he said. "Will you promise never to meddle with my affairs again, if I prove to you that I am loved for my own sake?"

"Yes, I promise you," I replied, without hesitation, for I felt convinced that for such a monster the proof was impossible.

"Well, then, it's quite simple. . . . Christine Daae shall leave this as she pleases and come back again! . . . Yes, come back again, because she wishes . . . come back of herself, because she loves me for myself!"

"Oh, I doubt if she will come back! . . . But it is your duty to let her go."

"My duty, you great booby! . . . It is my wish . . . my wish to let her go; and she will come back again . . . for she loves me! . . . All this will end in a marriage . . . a marriage at the Madeleine, you great booby! Do you believe me now? When I tell you that my nuptial mass is written . . . wait till you hear the Kyrie. . . ."

He beat time with his heels on the planks of the boat and sang:

"Kyrie! . . . Kyrie! . . . Kyrie eleison! . . . Wait till you hear, wait till you hear that mass."

"Look here," I said. "I shall believe you if I see Christine Daae come out of the house on the lake and go back to it of her own accord."

"And you won't meddle any more in my affairs?"

"No."

"Very well, you shall see that tonight. Come to the masked ball, Christine and I will go and have a look round. Then you can hide in the lumber-room and you shall see Christine, who will have gone to her dressing-room, delighted to come back by the Communists' road. . . . And, now, be off, for I must go and do some shopping!"

To my intense astonishment, things happened as he had announced. Christine Daae left the house on the lake and returned to it several times, without, apparently, being forced to do so. It was very difficult for me to clear my mind of Erik. However, I resolved to be extremely prudent, and did not make the mistake of returning to the shore of the lake, or of going by the Communists' road. But the idea of the secret entrance in the third cellar haunted me, and I repeatedly went and waited for hours behind a scene from the Roi de Lahore, which had been left there for some reason or other. At last my patience was rewarded. One day, I saw the monster come toward me, on his knees. I was certain that he could not see me. He passed between the scene behind which I stood and a set piece, went to the wall and pressed on a spring that moved a stone and afforded him an ingress. He passed through this, and the stone closed behind him.

I waited for at least thirty minutes and then pressed the spring in my turn. Everything happened as with Erik. But I was careful not to go through the hole myself, for I knew that Erik was inside. On the other hand, the idea that I might be caught by Erik suddenly made me think of the death of Joseph Buquet. I did not wish to jeopardize the advantages of so great a discovery which might be useful to many people, "to a goodly number of the human race," in Erik's words; and I left the cellars of the opera after carefully replacing the stone.

I continued to be greatly interested in the relations between Erik and Christine Daae, not from any morbid curiosity, but because of the terrible thought which obsessed my mind that Erik was capable of anything, if he once discovered that he was not loved for his own sake, as he imagined. I continued to wander, very cautiously, about the opera and soon learned the truth about the monster's dreary love-affair.

He filled Christine's mind, through the terror with which he inspired her, but the dear child's heart belonged wholly to the Vicomte Raoul de Chagny. While they played about, like an innocent engaged couple, on the upper floors of the opera, to avoid the monster, they little suspected that some one was watching over them. I was prepared to do anything; to kill the monster, if necessary, and explain to the police afterward. But Erik did not show himself; and I felt none the more comfortable for that.

I must explain my whole plan. I thought that the monster, being driven from his house by jealousy, would thus enable me to enter it, without danger, through the passage in the third cellar. It was important, for everybody's sake, that I should know exactly what was inside. One day, tired of waiting for an opportunity, I moved the stone and at once heard an astounding music: the monster was working at his Don Juan Triumphal, with every door in his house wide open. I knew that this was the work of his life. I was careful not to stir and remained prudently in my dark hole.

Again he puffed and blew like a wairius.

"I won't answer for anything! . . . If Erik's secrets cease to be Erik's secrets, it will be a bad lookout for like a madman. And he said aloud, at the top of his voice:

"It must be finished first! Quite finished!"

This speech was not calculated to reassure me and, when the music recommenced, I closed the stone very softly.

On the day of the abduction of Christine Daae, I did not come to the theater until rather late in the evening, trembling lest I should hear bad news. I had spent a horrible day, for, after reading in a morning paper the announcement of a forthcoming marriage between Christine and the Vicomte de Chagny, I wondered whether, after all, I should not do better and denounce the monster. But reason returned to me, and I was persuaded that this action could only precipitate a possible catastrophe.

When my cab set me down before the opera, I was really almost astonished to see it still standing! But I am something of a fatalist, like all good Orientals, and I entered ready for anything.

Christine Daae's abduction in the Prison Act, which naturally surprised everybody, found me prepared. I was quite certain that she had been jugged away by Erik, that prince of conjurers. And I thought positively that this was the end of Christine and perhaps of everybody, so much so that I thought of advising all these people who were staying on at the theater to make good their escape. I felt, however, that they would be sure to look upon me as mad and I refrained.

On the other hand, I resolved to act without further delay, as far as I was concerned. The chances were in my favor that Erik, at that moment, was thinking only of his captive. This was the moment to enter his house through the third cellar; and I resolved to take with me that poor little desperate viscount, who, at the first suggestion, accepted, with an amount of confidence in myself that touched me profoundly. I had sent my servant for my pistols. I gave one to the viscount and advised him to hold himself ready to fire, for, after all, Erik might be waiting for us behind the wall. We were to go by the Communists' road and through the trap-door.

Seeing my pistols, the little viscount asked me if we were going to fight a duel!

"Yes; and what a duel!"

But, of course, I had no time to explain anything to him. The little viscount is a brave fellow, but he knew hardly anything about his adversary; and it was so much the better. My great fear was that he was already somewhere near us, preparing the Punjab lasso. No one knows better than he how to throw the Punjab lasso, for he is the king of stranglers even as he is the prince of conjurers. When he had finished making the little sultana laugh, at the time of the "rosy hours of Mazenderan," she herself used to ask him to amuse her by giving her a thrill. It was then that he introduced the sport of the Punjab lasso.

It is too cool—it by setting a very shallow pan of cold water upon the floor just before putting in the cake. Take out the pan after a few minutes, of course, first turning down the gas flame, or pushing in the dampers to reduce heat. Cook at moderate heat until done through. It will take an hour to an hour and a half, according to the thickness of the cakes.

Midway the baking they should be shifted—those from the grid shelf set low on the broiler, those from the broiler put high, so that they will cook evenly. Make holes in the bag tops and test the cakes before taking them up by thrusting in a clear straw or thin knife blade. If the thing thrust in comes out with no stickiness clinging to it, the cake is done. Bag cooking prevents crusting over, and thereby facilitates rising. It also saves from burning and avoids the risk of jarring by too much opening of the oven door. Baking powder can be used in place of soda and cream of tartar, but to my thinking the old way is the best.

Raisin cake is made almost the same as pound cake, but takes a little longer and slower baking.

Schiff Defies State's Demand In Brandt Case.

THE CASE IS NARROWING DOWN

Alleged Conspiracy to Railroad Young Man to Prison Has Reached Point Where Sensational Developments Involving Household of New York Millionaire May Come at Any Time, a Mysterious Letter Being the Cause.

New York, Feb. 17.—A letter that was taken from Folke E. Brandt's room in East Forty-second street the night Brandt was arrested, is in the possession of Mortimer L. Schiff. Schiff's advisers have informed the district attorney that he will go to any extremity rather than surrender this letter. The district attorney had demanded it.

Only four of Brandt's letters written to him, or received by him, are in existence, although nineteen were removed from his room by Detective Sergeants Joseph D. Wooldridge and John Taylor and Pinkerton Detective John Rogers. The four that have escaped destruction appear to the district attorney to have most direct bearing on the prosecution that sent the man to prison to serve thirty years. Fifteen, so far as the district attorney can learn, went the way of unclaimed property in the police department.

The letter which Mr. Schiff desires to retain was written, though not mailed, to a member of Schiff's household. The others that have survived were written to Brandt by employees of Schiff. Although written by servants to a servant, they contained a note of obsequiousness, a strain of flattery and an evident desire to ingratiate. These letters were in the hands of Howard S. Gans, Schiff's counsel in the Brandt prosecution, until they were turned over to Delancy Nicoll, who is now acting for Mr. Schiff as well as for Gans.

The district attorney is informed that the four letters were separated from the other documents found in Brandt's room and secretly removed by Pinkerton Detective Rogers, who was in the employ of Mr. Schiff. Rogers accompanied Detective Sergeants Wooldridge and Taylor when they went to arrest Brandt on Schiff's delayed complaint that Brandt had assaulted him and burglarized his house. Rogers had no authority to lay a finger on Brandt's property, but it is known that while he was in Brandt's room with Wooldridge and Taylor he managed to possess himself of the four letters that now interest the district attorney. Taylor went before the grand jury that is investigating whether Brandt was the victim of a conspiracy when he was sentenced to thirty years in state's prison by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky and swore that he turned over to the Lieutenant in charge of the detective bureau the night Brandt was arrested all of the letters and effects that Inspector McLaughlin told him to take from Brandt's room. The district attorney, carefully balancing the situation, said that either Taylor committed perjury, or Rogers, the Pinkerton man, was guilty of grand larceny.

Thoroughly conversant now with what took place the night Brandt was taken into custody, Mr. Whitman was able to speak frankly with Schiff's attorney. Holding out no promises whatever, Whitman asked that the letters be placed in his hands. Mr. Schiff's counsel was willing to hand over three letters, but he balked on the fourth.

FEUD MURDERS

Two More Added to Long List of Breathitt Vendetta Victims.

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 17.—Reports from Buckhorn tell of the assassination of "Big John" Davidson and Levi Johnson. Both men were shot to death while passing a house across the line from Breathitt in Perry county. Davidson was tried recently for killing John Abner, but was acquitted. Revenge of clansmen is supposed to have brought his death, while Johnson was killed because he happened to be in Davidson's company.

A Light on Sewing Machines

Washington, Feb. 17.—In the hearing before the senate finance committee on the Underwood steel bill, Robert Hearne, an importer of sewing machines, declared that family sewing machines which are retailed in America for $45, cost only $9 to manufacture.

COUNTY SEAT NAMED.

Liberty Herald: The County Commissioners have appointed Will Suiters County Inspector of weights and measures. Now it's up to "Wick" to become a regular local Isidor Wulffson. He gets a salary of $125.00 a year and his duties are to inspect the scales used in public business twice a year and correct any irregularities found. This work is important and each county is authorized to appoint such an inspector by the last legislature. The appointee will go to Indianapolis this week to take the civil service examination for the position.

The strike of some five hundred Paris seamstresses for better wages has disclosed the fact that they make less than fifty cents a day, working ten hours.

Style Is That Quality Desired by All Ladies impossible to define, hard to picture, but easily recognized when seen, and always assured the wearer of garments made by Ladies' Home Journal Patterns.

What comfort to know that the seam allowance is already made on the pattern you are using. It is always the same on Ladies' Home Journal Patterns— $\frac{3}{8}$ inch. No chance for costly mistakes.

You may look over our Counter Book of the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns to heart's content. If you can make selection easier at home, where you will be free from interruption, buy the quarterly Style Book. It will cost you only 20c and contains a certificate good for any 15c pattern.

The simplicity of the Ladies' Home Journal Embroidery Patterns is one of the strong features. The Guide Chart which goes with each pattern tells exactly how to transfer the design to any material; tells just what kind and how much material is required, and explains thoroughly the stitches necessary in doing the work.

OFFERS EXHIBIT OF GREAT WORTH

Purdue Experiment Station Car Will Show Animal Specimens Infected With Disease.

WILL BE HERE TUESDAY, FEB. 28

Feature is Model of Poultry House on Purdue Farm—Other Interesting Displays.

The agricultural exhibit car that is being shown throughout the state on the roads of the New York Central, by the agricultural extension department of Purdue university, will arrive here Tuesday evening, February 27, and will remain until eleven o'clock the next day. The car will be open all Wednesday morning and will be located on a siding near the Big Four depot.

The exhibit includes specimens of animals infected with diseases such as hog cholera, tuberculosis, etc., together with suggestions for the prevention and cure of these diseases. In one box is a collection of the best and most serviceable apparatus for the proper care of an apple orchard, such as pruning knives, saws, sprays, pumps, etc.

One of the features of the exhibit is a model of the poultry house on the Purdue farm. It is complete in every detail, but at the same time is simple, cheap and easily constructed. In connection with it are nests, food hoppers, water fountains, etc., and suitable literature in regard to chicken raising.

One of the displays that has aroused considerable comment is to show the large amount of water contained in milk, even good milk. Another feature consists of a corn germinator in operation. At the several stops, it is explained, the men in charge of the car collect ears of corn, kernels of which are placed in the germinator.

Men who visit the exhibit are asked to examine the ears and state whether they would grow, and after their decision is given, the actual results of the germinator are shown to them.

There are many other displays in the exhibit that are well worth seeing.

The car started on its journey Thursday, January 11, and will continue traveling from point to point within the state until May 28.

The car is a standard parlor coach cleared of seats. Those in charge of the exhibit have accommodations in a stateroom at one end of the car, and at the opposite end of the car is a small room in which there is a desk, a collection of the best books on agriculture and a few chairs for the accommodation of visitors.

RETURN FROM COLORADO

Nathan Horr and Family Meet Former Rushville Man.

Nathan Horr, wife and daughter, Susie, returned yesterday from a 60 day visit with his daughter and son-in-law, Bert Buell, at Arboles, in the extreme western part of Colorado. Mr. Horr reports having had nice weather there during his stay, it being warm enough for people to work outdoors in shirt sleeves. That part of Colorado is a ranch country, besides some alfalfa and sugar beets are raised. On his return trip Mr. Horr saw Phil Oster at Denver, who was most delighted to see him. Mr. Oster is following his trade of shoemaker and is doing well and enjoying the best of health. He wishes to be remembered by his Rushville friends.

takes many things into consideration. It compiles the population within a radius of two miles on either side of the proposed route of extension and attempts to get at the amount of freight and traffic business which could be expected from such a line.

Business men active in the affairs of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association urge that a large number of men of Rushville who have the interest of the city at heart turn out Monday night to meet the Brookville boosters. The meeting will be held in the court house.

It is pointed out that if the Brookville business men believe the line of great worth to that county seat to make some extra endeavor to get it, the residents of Rushville should at least step out of the luke-warm position and begin to take an active interest in the campaign. Business men here have been working along lines suggested by the members of the Retail Merchants Association and have been talking traction extension to persons most deeply interested.

The worth to Rushville of the extension from this city has been pointed out repeatedly. The line would open up a district which has never been traversed or invaded by a common carrier built to carry on a traffic business. There is little doubt but what the line would bring much more business to Rushville as well as to Brookville, where the merchants realize the worth of the line passing through their city.

The meeting here Monday night will show just where the people of Rushville stand in regard to the traction line extension. It is argued that if it is not shown that Rushville would be more than glad to get the extension it is not very likely that it would come here. It is up to the men of Rushville now to show that they are heartily interested in the welfare of their home city, which will prosper and grow if the proper methods are applied.

There are many other displays in the exhibit that are well worth seeing. The car started on its journey Thursday, January 11, and will continue traveling from point to point within the state until May 28.

The car is a standard parlor coach cleared of seats. Those in charge of the exhibit have accommodations in a stateroom at one end of the car, and at the opposite end of the car is a small room in which there is a desk, a collection of the best books on agriculture and a few chairs for the accommodation of visitors.

Lake Erie Superintendent and Roadmaster Ride From Muncie Here and Return.

CAR WILL SEAT EIGHT PEOPLE

J. W. O'Brien, superintendent of the Ft. W. C. & L. division of the L. E. & W. and A. B. Richards, roadmaster of the same division, together with G. Campbell, a representative of the Fairbanks-Morse company, Thursday, says the Muncie Star, went from Muncie to Rushville and return on a new four-wheeled motor car put out by the Fairbanks company for use by maintenance of way men in the new system of railroads in providing power propelled cars for section gangs instead of giving them the old hand cars.

The new car, which seats eight people is the latest design by the Morse people, and will be thoroughly tested in the two months in which it will be left with Roadmaster Richards for use on the local division.
